

Return to Sport Update - January 18, 2022

Dear Special Olympics Saskatchewan Membership,

Special Olympics Saskatchewan (SOS) continues to carefully monitor the provincial health landscape and follow the guidance of the Government of Saskatchewan and Saskatchewan Public Health measures. At this time, all SOS sport and fitness programs can continue without alterations, as long as all SOS safety requirements are followed.

We are grateful to all athletes and volunteers for all their ongoing hard work on safety. We rely on you to continue your diligence in following all SOS protocols, to keep ensuring the safety of Special Olympics participants, programs, and events.

Remember if you are sick or feeling unwell, stay home and do not attend SOS programs.

SOS will be evaluating and approving competitions on a case by case basis for the time being. Competitions are still possible in the current landscape.

SOS will continue to monitor the provincial health landscape and requirements, and will share updates when necessary. However, there can sometimes be a delay between major announcements from the public health measures and when provincial sport organizations receive clarification on what that means for sport programs and our specific needs. We greatly appreciate the patience of all SOS members.

Thank you for your understanding and your ongoing commitment to safety. You are helping us protect each other and get through this together.

If you have any questions or feedback, please don't hesitate to contact SOS Director of Programs, Ben Lozinsky at blozinsky@specialolympics.sk.ca or 306-780-9423.
