These athletes are presently training for the winter games being held Feb. 13-14 in Melfort.

These are followed by the international games in Austria and of course the summer games in Regina.

The cost of training athletes is extraordinary, stated Krilow, and Special Olympics has very little money. In fact, Zobrill will go to Austria in a pair of $50 skates — other athletes in Canada would not be representing their country like that — but go she will and very likely she'll win.

Bingo was the major money fundraiser for Zone 7, said Krilow. But as more and more non-profit organization discovered that pool of revenue then access to everyone started to become very limited.

And there is yet another segment of society which is coming forward to help Zone 7. Owners of the Denholm Hotel, Leslie and Lennie L'Heureux will be hosting a snowmobile rally January 23/93 with all proceeds going to Zone 7.

The generosity keeps going on. All of the prizes have also been donated for the event.

"Not everyone is just interested in making a fast buck," concluded Krilow.
