Members of Regina's police community will trade their guns for an apron and a notepad this month in order to help the Special Olympics.

On April 27, local police officers will be waiting on tables at the Red Lobster restaurant, 890 Albert St.

"Hopefully we won't spill coffee on anyone," said Cpl. Dave Hoeft of the RCMP.

Tips for the officers will go towards supporting the Special Olympics World Games in New Haven, Conn.

Saskatchewan is sending three athletes to the international event.

The officers and a few "mystery" waiters will be at the restaurant from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.
