To provide quality and enjoyable sport training and competitive experiences and opportunities for Special Olympics BC athletes and volunteers, and for safety reasons, it is important that coaches meet or exceed the minimum training requirements established in these regulations within the first two years of coaching. Note: The Special Olympics Canada Online Volunteer Orientation must be completed within the first year of coaching.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Coaches are required to obtain Professional Development (PD) points in order to maintain their certification. PD points can be earned through a variety of activities: national and provincial sport conferences and workshops, eLearning modules, NCCP workshops, coach mentorship programs, and active coaching. When attending one of the above-mentioned activities, ask the organizers if PD points can be earned by attending the activity to ensure you get credit.

Active Coaching: For every year of coaching, a coach can receive 1 point. To earn this point, you must access your coaching transcript and you can self-report your coaching.

The number of required PD points and the timeframe in which to earn these PD points will be listed on the coach's transcript for any sport-specific certification they may have. Special Olympics BC coaches at this time only achieve "trained status," but will also require coaches to earn PD points. We will require coaches to earn 12 PD points over five years.
