SPECIAL GUEST: She excelled in swimming, figure skating, billiards and basketball. She won two gold medals and a silver in track and field at the 1932 Summer Olympics, then took up golf and reeled off 19 consecutive tournament victories. And on a cool June evening in 1934, she was on the mound at Cairns Field in Saskatoon to pitch the first two innings in an exhibition game against an all-star team from the Saskatoon senior men's baseball league. Can you name her? The answer is at the bottom of this column.
